The Generation Belt

10 Kanti snuck behind her village's circle of wigwams. One Algonquin
 21 family was repairing their home with fresh birch bark strips. Kanti
 35 stayed in the shadow of the trees until she reached the lake. She could 49 see her father's sleek canoe far off in the distance. He was fishing for 60 their dinner. Her cousins were splashing merrily near the shore and 68 waved to her. She stepped into the water.

68 "Kanti!" an irritated voice said.

73 Kanti felt her heart drop to her stomach. She was caught. Kanti's
 85 mother walked quickly toward her. "Kanti, you know that your 95 grandmother is going to teach you today."

102 "It's so steamy outside. Why can't I swim with my cousins?"
 113 she whined.

115 Her mother looked sympathetic, but firm. "Sometimes we have to
 125 set aside play so we can learn. Come, I think you will like this lesson
 140 better than you predict."

144 Kanti's grandmother looked dignified sitting cross-legged in the
 152 center of their wigwam. Around her lay wide beaded belts of white
 164 and purple with all kinds of vivid designs. In front of her was a loom
 179 shaped like an archer's bow with a few rows of beads strung.

191 "Thanks for coming, Kanti." There was a mischievous glint in her
 202 grandmother's eye. She held a few small purple beads. "Do you know
 214 what these are?"

217 "That's easy, they're wampum." Sometimes Kanti would help
 225 collect the quahog, or clams, the beads were made from.

Name _____

“I actually meant, what do the beads stand for?” Kanti’s grandmother said. “Here, let me show you.”

She held out one of the most elaborate belts for Kanti to see. The purple beads made a pattern of triangles on the right side. On the left side, two figures stood holding hands next to a wigwam. “These people are your great-great grandmother and grandfather,” she said. “They traveled over the mountains to find a place to settle.” She traced the triangles with her fingers, stopping at one with the outline of a majestic bird hovering over it. “Your great-great grandmother saw an eagle that led them through the mountains.”

A circle at the edge of the mountains represented the lake that fed the village. “When they found a wide lake, they knew it would support many people. This is how our village began.”

Despite herself, Kanti was drawn in by the story the belt portrayed. Suddenly, the belts’ patterns jumped out at her, all holding adventures of their own. She looked at the loom with a scant five rows completed. “What story will this belt tell?” she asked.

“This belt will tell your story,” her grandmother said. “I started it for you and you can continue to add to it as you grow.” With that, her grandmother carefully stacked the belts and left.

Kanti immediately set to work, concentrating on finding just the right shades of purple wampum before stringing together rows. The purple beads became a figure about to leap into a calm lake. She couldn’t wait for her cousins to come back so she could show them her new belt.

A Roman Tradition

“Come help me pick flowers from the garden,” Cornelia’s mother called. Cornelia got up and followed her mother outside. Their house stood on a hill outside the city of Rome, and from their garden they could look out over the empire’s capital.

“What do we need the flowers for?” Cornelia asked.

“To decorate the lararium,” her mother said. She turned and pointed to the house’s courtyard. A small building stood in the corner. It looked like a tiny temple. Columns held up its triangular roof, and a group of small statues and oil lamps sat inside.

“Three times a month, we bring flowers and honey to the spirits of the household. That way they’ll protect our house and our crops,” she explained.
